Project description:

The local geological features of the Petrified Forest Chemnitz are in the focus of the current international jewellery art project.

Eleven artists from seven countries met on the 31st of January to the 2nd of February 2013 for a joint symposium at the Museum für Naturkunde Chemnitz. During this meeting, there were a lot of important, interesting and exciting moments: the main point was the selection of the stones and another one was the analysis of the materials of Chemnitz and their history. Then, in a joint brainstorming, artists and organizers discussed the further project schedule and planned the first exhibition of the art works for October 2013.

The artists now are developing new unique jewellery pieces made from selected stones of petrified wood back home in their ateliers. This phase will continue until August 2013, when the artists will send their finished works to the Museum für Naturkunde Chemnitz.

Every jewellery artist should be able to create at least three objects using just a piece of the petrified wood from the Petrified Forest of Chemnitz, they do not have any restrictions regarding format and character of the work, their outcomes could be both jewellery or objects.
